PROFILE

I have a background in many fields including emergency medical care, restaurant line cooking, and management, logistical technical work for a fabrication company. These positions have taught me to be an adaptable problem solver with a can-do attitude. I work well under pressure, pay attention to the details, and have strong communication skills.

I am currently enrolled in University of Arizona's coding bootcamp to learn industry-standard coding skills and I am eager to begin working on real-world projects. I believe my diverse background, and newly acquired knowledge will make me a meaningful asset to any project I am deployed on as a entry level full stack developer.

EMPLOYMENT HISTORY

Logistics Technician , First Impressions Iron Works

Gilbert

Apr 2022 — Present

- Developed ,and thrived in a new position created for me to manage product inspections in a specific department.
- Solved emergent issues in an organized, and diligent manner assisting in expediting product installations that would have otherwise been rescheduled.
- Organized with team members to cross train, and fill in gaps of production in a reliable and efficient manner.
- Worked to advance a positive supply chain and powerful logistics networks.

My Primary role was to complete fabrication orders for the wood department at the beginning of my employment, manage inventory, deliver products to installation contractors, and assist in hand texture painting products.

A role was created for me specifically where I inspected glass panes received from our vendor in the glass department. I was chosen for this role due my meticulous attention to detail, and exemplary product standards. I have become skilled in this area, and complete work effectively, and expeditiously allowing me to assist in other departments throughout the day.
